

INDICTMENTS BY FED GRAND JURY

Fifty-four Indictments, Including
One Against Dr. Alexander
C. Sabin, Returned.

SEVERAL INDIANS ARE SNARED

Fifty-four indictments were returned by the federal grand jury, which just completed its work here. Forty-two of these were in the Omaha division, three in Norfolk, two in Grand Island, five in North Platte and two in Chadron.

Dr. Alexander C. Sabin of Omaha was indicted for devising a scheme to defraud. Sabin was arrested January 16 as the result of a decoy letter sent to him by secret service men, but purporting to come from "George W. Lemon, Princeton, Kan."

It is charged that he traveled about the country, stating that he represented the "Missouri Valley Medical Institute," stating that this was established in Omaha, and employed a large staff of skilled physicians and could and would cure practically all diseases.

The indictment charges him with securing a large number of persons, who were or might suppose themselves to be suffering from some ailment, to become patients and place themselves under the care of the "Missouri Valley Medical Institute," and that he secured money or property for the treatment promised.

Part of the alleged scheme to defraud, was the indictment, was that he would represent to persons without regard to their state of health, and particularly to those whose reports showed them to be in a normal state of health and not in need of any medical treatment whatever—that they were suffering from some dangerous disease, and that he secured money or property for the treatment to be given.

No Such Institution.

There is no such institution as the "Missouri Valley Medical Institute" in Omaha, says the indictment.

Roy A. Larson is charged with mailing red containing arsenic to Ethel Nicholson, Red Oak, Ia., and to Agnes Nyberg, Oakland, Neb.

Douglas Grizzly Bear, Henry Priest, Tom Bear, Julia St. Cyr, Felix White, Bruce Blackden, James Priest and Louis French are charged with introducing liquor on the Winnebago Indian reservation.

George W. Hilliard is charged with taking a letter addressed to J. L. Hilliard from the Columbus postoffice with intent to obstruct delivery of the mails.

Little Bobbie's Pa

By WILLIAM F. KIRK.

When Pa came home last night he had a big picture with him, he showed it to Ma the minute that he came in the house. I guess Pa was anxious to show Ma something because he came home late.

This wonderful picture, said Pa, I bought for a mere song. It is called "The Choice of Paris." Paris is the name of a young girl, and Pa, that used to live in Troy.

I didn't know anybody by that name when I lived in Troy, said Ma.

That is a different Troy, said Pa. You lived in Troy, New York, & Mister Paris lived in a other Troy. That was a long time ago, said Pa. How do you like the picture?

It is very beautiful, said Ma, but we have no place to hang it. The next time you come home late, said Ma, you might bring something like a new hat for me, or some fruit or something. You have been bringing home pictures for nearly twenty years, said Ma.

I never thought of that, said Pa. Yes, said Ma, pictures, pictures, pictures. They seem like milestones on our long married journey, said Ma. Sometimes I look at them pictures & think of all the miles you come home late. Them pictures haunts me like ghosts, said Ma. I call them my Tardy Pictures.

Just then Missus Blueface came in to call on Ma. How are you this evening, my dear, she said to Ma.

Splendid, said Ma. How do you like this picture my dear husband brought home to me?

I see, a peace offering, said Missus Blueface. My poor dear husband had the same trick before he died. Drink killed him, she said. He was one of Nature's noblemen, & like a lot of Nature's noblemen he had a noble thirst. Yes indeed, said Missus Blueface, he brought me home probably a thousand pictures in his short life, to say nothing of the cut flowers & candy.

Between bartenders & the fine things of life he was the blizzen man you ever saw. Poor George, I sometimes think that in a previous incarnation he was a camel, she said.

I merely purchased this picture because of its beauty, said Pa. I had no thought of squaring myself. I never have to do that, Pa said.

I see, said Missus Blueface. You are one of them "laxmen" that believe might has not vanquished from the earth. Such persons should be pinched, not patted, she said.

I see, said Pa. You believe that husbands should be chastised, like trained mules.

I certainly do, said Missus Blueface. When George was living he spent half his time hounding me every week & the other half trying to gratify it. & he would say if he hadn't got in with a swell crowd. The kind of man he went with wouldn't know what a pair of carpet slippers or morning robe was for. They were good boys, I guess.

I'll not be a second old sport, said Pa. I should like to have known him. It is too bad to die.

Maybe you will see him later on, said Missus Blueface. You have his traits. You wouldn't talk any more to Pa, she talked to Ma all the evening.

Ma's friends don't like Pa as much as they like Ma, & Pa doesn't like them as much as he likes Ma, neither.

Just One Question.

That reminds us, Mr. Howell, that you are again running for republican national committeeman, but have not yet publicly stated what you will do if elected.

When you asked for the votes of republicans for this same place on the eve of the last presidential campaign, you made this declaration over your own signature:

"While I am a great admirer of Senator La Follette, I am a warm supporter of Colonel Roosevelt. However, I am first a republican and whoever is nominated will receive my hearty support if I am chosen national committeeman."

In spite of this solemn pledge of yours, Mr. Howell, you insisted on staying on the committee while fighting the party's standard bearers whom you were in honor bound to support; you contributed money to the campaign fund of another hostile party; you in open court sought to prevent republicans from having even a chance to vote in Nebraska for their presidential ticket.

Forgetting the past except as a guide to the future, where do you stand today, Mr. Howell? And what will you do in the next campaign if again commissioned as general manager of the republican party campaign in Nebraska?

Republicans whose votes you are soliciting have a right to know.

GRAIN MARKET REMAINS AT UNCHANGED PRICES

While one carload of No. 2 hard wheat sold at $1.14 per bushel, generally the Omaha market was unchanged to 1 cent lower than Thursday. The bulk of the sales were made around $1.04 and $1.10 per bushel. Receipts for the day were sixty-six carloads.

Corn was unchanged to 1/4 cent higher, selling at 62 and 63 1/2 cents per bushel. The receipts were sixty-two carloads.

There were ten cars of oats on the market and prices were 1/4 cent off to 1/4 cent higher than Thursday. Sales were at 41 and 42 1/2 cents per bushel.

BODY OF ITINERANT WHO SHOT HIMSELF IS FOUND

The body of Andrew Olson, itinerant, aged 30 years, was found in a shack at Seventh and Leavenworth streets this morning. The man had ended his life with a bullet from a small caliber revolver. Kats had gnawed a considerable portion of the features of the dead man.

LOOK!

at the prices in the big stores and then compare my prices and you will wonder why you did not BUY YOUR SPRING SUIT HERE.

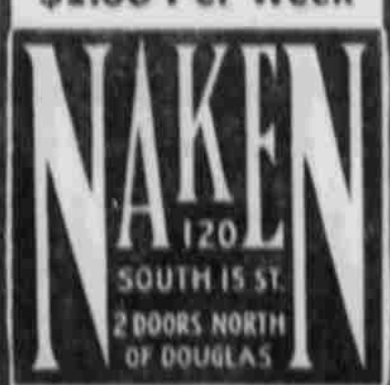

The Reason

I can undersell the other fellow because I am out of the high rent district and I can save you from $5 to $10 on a suit. Come in, look around, and you will wonder how a little store like mine can carry such a wonderful line of merchandise from the larger houses in the east and styles that can be compared only with the best and finest houses in Omaha.

MY CREDIT plan is plain and simple; you pick out what you want and pay me a little each week while you are working. Ladies' Suits from $10 to $20; coats from $7.50 to $22; dresses from $1.75 to $25. Men's Suits from $10 to $25.

I also carry children's clothing, hats, shoes, socks, petticoats and rain coats for men and women.

ALL ARE TALKING UP FOR MR. HUGHES

Leading Republicans of State Flock to Metropolitan to Catch the Trend.

HOW YOU CAN VOTE BY MAIL

John L. Kennedy, Senator Shumway, Vac Buresh, Bob Drucesdow and a few other republicans were holding a sidewalk levee in front of the city hall, when John Paul Breen happened along. Mr. Breen was on his way to get some information at the city hall, but he could not resist the temptation to tarry a few minutes and browse in the green pastures of politics.

"I want to tell you just one thing," began John Paul, "I don't see how any republican can see he is making a mistake by voting for Hughes. I'll put it another way and say, republicans will make no mistake when they vote for Hughes. Mr. Hughes represents the safe and sane middle ground of all that is dear to the heart of a republican."

Talking about Hughes, he just seems to be in the political atmosphere. W. G. Shriver came along after Mr. Breen left and he, too, mentioned the name of Hughes. He did it voluntarily, just a thought unbidden. "We are going to nominate Hughes in this state," remarked Mr. Shriver, just to express his mind.

Professor O. A. Thomas, state superintendent of instruction, and E. M. Currie, have arrived and called at the headquarters of Senator Shumway. Mr. Currie is from Brewster and is candidate for delegate-at-large to the republican national convention.

Any qualified voter in Nebraska compelled to be away from home on primary day may vote by mail by appearing at the election polls anywhere in the state and making an affidavit of qualification. The ballot must be handed to the judges of election, who will enclose it in an envelope and send it by mail to the voter's own voting place. The vote must be cast upon the ballot furnished at the polls, and the voter must write in the names of all local candidates for whom he desires to vote. Where registration is required, the voter must secure a certificate of registration from the official in charge in the city in which he lives, and present it with the affidavit before he votes.

Victor Seymour, campaign manager for John L. Kennedy, has closed up his mailing campaign. "We sent out loads of mail matter and feel we have covered the field thoroughly. We also feel that victory is ours. In Mr. Kennedy we have a candidate who is as clean as a hound's tooth," stated Mr. Seymour. Mr. Kennedy will make a trip into Washington county before the week is over.

A republican meeting will be held this evening in Rich's hall, Twenty-fourth street between N and O streets, South Side. P. J. Martin will preside. Among the speakers will be John L. Kennedy, D. S. Baker, N. H. Loomis and H. C. Murphy.

Load of Fish to Be Planted in Carter Lake by the State

Here's some joyful news for anglers who pursue the finny tribe at Carter lake.

W. J. O'Brien of the State Fish commission will arrive in Omaha at 10 o'clock car with a plant of twenty cans of fish this morning with the state fish for Carter lake. This load will consist of crappie, perch, blue gill, sunfish, yellow perch and channel catfish. All of the fish will be one and two-year old.

Mr. O'Brien will be met at the depot by the Carter lake committee, consisting of Albert Edholm, Al Hixon, Harry Churchill, C. Johnson and Chris Olson. This committee will take the fish to the lake for the planting.

O'Brien will bring a load of bass to Carter lake a little later.

Muse Theater at 24th and Farnam is to Open Up Today

The new Muse theater at Twenty-fourth and Farnam will open for its first performance Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock presenting Selig's ten-act masterpiece, "The Ne'er Do Well," with Kathryn Williams and the same cast that made "The Spoilers" such a remarkable production.

The new theater is a beautiful structure, both inside and out. It is fitted with over nine hundred cushioned opera chairs on the main floor and balcony. In building this theater the owners have incorporated every feature considered valuable in the modern photoplay house, with particular attention given to seating arrangement, lighting and ventilation. The opening play was filmed in Panama, the scene of Rex Beach's novel by the same name and is proclaimed a wonderful picture of that story.

Four performances will be given every afternoon and evening at 1, 3, 7 and 9 o'clock.

For music the management will offer Oleon's Symphony orchestra and the only photoplayer in Omaha. The photoplayer is a new instrument designed for motion picture shows and is a remarkable instrument.

The decorations are worthy of special mention and are the work of Robert Nelson Place of New York, now with Beaton & Lauer. The entrance is reproductions of four panels entitled "The Nymph and the Faun." The foyer is a tapestry panel reproduced from a famous picture now hanging in the Louvre in Paris from Gobelin looms. The auditorium is laid out in modern panel effect of festoons and floral runs of mulberry Gobelin blue and french gray and black.
